The Eternaut (Spanish: El Eternauta) is a science fiction comic created by Argentine comic strip writer Héctor Germán Oesterheld with artwork by Francisco Solano López. It was first published in Hora Cero Semanal from 1957 to 1959. Oesterheld returned to El Eternauta with a remake and a sequel, published in 1969 and 1975, respectively.

The Eternaut—Wikipedia

The Eternaut is also thinly disguised political allegory: its writer, Héctor Germán Oesterheld (HGO), because he was involved in groups who protested the military dictatorship, was 'disappeared' and presumed dead in 1977.

The story is a pastiche of the War of the Worlds and The Ancient Mariner (and maybe some Karl Marx) rejigged for Buenos Aires and the needs of the serial graphic narrative. The Lopez graphics are anti-romantic, in grim black and white as befitting the doomsday scenario and low-cost printing considerations.

The Eternaut review —hero in a homemade diving suit—

The Eternaut begins with a testimony, and for all that the book evokes Robinson Crusoe in its narration (writer Héctor Germán Oesterheld was quite the fan) I couldn't help but think about Moby Dick. Robinson Crusoe is a hero in the classical sense, a man who builds up his world through rugged individualism (and the grace of god).

Imagine someone in the fifties when Elvis was recording his first single imagining a Science Fiction story about aliens that take over the Earth through a snow storm that settles the ground for the proper invasion, and all these being also a political allegory.

The Eternaut is a cultural icon in Argentina and the image of Juan Salvo, the "hero" of this graphic novel, is still seen in art and murals 60+ years after its release. It's an epic tale, and one that captures the Cold War-era (written in 1957) along with the golden age of pulp science fiction.

The Eternaut: A Review

The Eternaut is a beautiful looking book with a die cut cover and slipcase. Lopez's story and artwork capture the vibe of Cold War era world in the 50s and 60s similar to EC's suspense comics (Weird Science, Shock Suspense Stories, Weird Fantasy etc...) and the Twilight Zone and to the modern zombie craze.

Classic Sci-Fi Comic: Eternaut Fights The Power—NPR

The Eternaut is a story about resistance to seemingly unbeatable forces, highlighting an indomitable spirit of adaptability and desire for survival among humanity. This isn't American style individual heroics, but collective, hence the political allegory. Mid-20th century Argentina was ruled by a succession of dictators, and Oesterheld's plot skims around that frequently, but with ...
